‘MESD needs every cent’

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

"...The Metro East Sanitary District is going to need every cent of whatever additional revenues the local people are willing to provide," Horner & Shifrin Inc. engineers said three months ago.

They feel the same way, now that a second MESD tax election has been called for Feb. 28.

A $31 million project to assure adequate groundwater control and flood control in western Madison and St. Clair counties hinges on public approval of MESD participation, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has said.

Horner & Shifrin, hired by the Corps to evaluate MESD repair needs, has just completed its study, concluding that the recommended improvements total $36,981,000.

As viewed by William O. Shirley, Horner's project manager for the study, "There is no doubt that the process of maintaining and upgrading the MESD flood protection system will be costly. But it is necessary and worthwhile because it will protect millions of dollars of investment in homes, businesses and industries...as well as the lives and livelihood of over half a million people.

"The East St. Louis Pump Station (where a gate failure flooded part of East St. Louis in October 1986), originally part of the (MESD repair cost) estimate, has already been renovated with other emergency funds," Shirley said. "However, we discovered other deficiencies which...more than make up for that cost."

"The new $36,981,000 estimate is nearly $14 million more than the amount available for that phase of the project," said Jim Broadway, election campaign director of Citizens for Flood Protection; $23 million of the $31 million plan relates to the MESD flood protection system (pump stations, gates, canals and ditches) and $8 million is for a proposed series of 60 deep wells/pumps.

"This is not a 'cost overrun.' And it is not a barrier to full rehabilitation of the MESD facilities," Broadway said.

Madison school combats apathy

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

MADISON — An in-school suspension room at the high school, previously used only for disciplinary matters, will now also be used to combat academic apathy.

"We're not having a problem with students who do work and do it poorly," Principal Bob Mehelic said. "The problem is students who do no work at all."

Mehelic recently told the school board that both he and the staff at the high school have been alarmed by the number of failing grades given to students in the last few years.

Mehelic said 50 percent of the sophomore class and about 45 percent of the freshman class received at least one "F" during the first grading period of this school year.

He said most of his staff members felt the grades were due to uncompleted assignments or missed tests.

Shooting ruled accidental

EDWARDSVILLE — A gun with a "hair trigger" may have been a contributing factor in the Dec. 18 shooting death of Melissa Barnhart, 15, of Granite City.

A jury ruled the shooting accidental during a coroner's inquest yesterday.

Detective Donald F. Bunt Jr. of the Madison County Deputy Sheriff's Department testified that the .38 caliber revolver had been tampered with, making it unsafe.

"William Barnhart (Melissa's father) told me that the gun may not have been in proper operating condition," Bunt said. Bunt testified that Barnhart told him shaving and filing had been done inside the gun to give it a hair trigger.

Laboratory analysis confirmed that filing had been done. Bunt said the normal trigger pull on a gun of that size would be three to five pounds but reports indicated that the gun had a trigger pull of only one and a half to two pounds.

"While it was being examined at the lab I handled the gun," Bunt said. "It went off in my hand before I had a good grip on it."

Bunt said that following the investigation he was convinced that only Melissa and her boy friend, Timothy D. Smith, 17, of Granite City were at the Barnhart residence just outside the city limits on the night of the shooting.

During emotional testimony,

GC man wounded with gun at home

GRANITE CITY — Scott Briggs of the 4400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes underwent surgery Wednesday morning at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for a gunshot wound to the left side of the body.

Briggs, 31, was accidentally shot by a relative at his apartment while the man was showing Briggs a .22 caliber single shot derringer, police said.

Briggs was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

After questioning by police, the owner of the weapon was released without being charged, pending further investigation by detectives.

Young women hurt in collision; driver flees

GRANITE CITY — Two young women were in stable condition Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center with injuries suffered in a head-on collision at 6:35 p.m. Tuesday on West Pontoon Road.

The driver of the second car involved, also apparently hurt in the accident, fled from the scene on foot.

Injured in the crash were Tanya F. Blackwell, 18, of the 2700 block of Roosevelt Avenue and a passenger in her car, Christine Blackwell, 16, of the same address.

Fire trucks, squad cars and an ambulance converged on the area and police officers searched nearby streets and a shopping center looking for the hit-and-run male driver. He was not located.

Both young women were extricated from their auto by Granite City Fire Department rescue personnel and were taken by ambulance to the medical center.

Tanya Blackwell was driving east on West Pontoon approaching the intersection of Briarcliff when a westbound 1976 Ford Elite car crossed the railroad tracks at high speed, witnesses said.

The driver of the Ford moved into the oncoming traffic lane after crossing the tracks and collided head-on with Blackwell's car.

Madison County sheriff's deputies and Pontoon Beach police officers assisted Granite City police. An investigation continued Wednesday.

City facing back-pay judgment

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MADISON — Mayor John Bellcoff informed the City Council on Tuesday that the city will soon be faced with a sizable judgment for back pay to former Madison policemen.

Bellcoff said the city's attorneys will meet with the judge and with attorneys representing the former policemen to settle on the final figures.

On Dec. 19, Associate Judge Wendell Durr issued a preliminary judgment in favor of five former officers who sued for back incentive pay due them under terms of a city ordinance providing extra pay of $128 a month for officers furthering their education.

Durr is also hearing a similar case brought by four other former policemen.

During the administration of former mayor Mike Sasyk, the city decided to reduce the educational incentive pay to $25 a month. But the council did not change the pay ordinance immediately, officials said.

Bellcoff said he does not know how much money is involved, but suggested it might be as much as $55,000. He warned the council it will have to come up with a way to pay the court judgment, but said it could be paid with money forthcoming from the sale of city property to the Dubbles restaurant chain.

That $55,000 sale has been held up, Bellcoff said, but he expects it to proceed within the next few weeks. He said he hopes to have a figure on the amount of the final court judgment by the next council meeting in two weeks.

Caryn Miller and Zeke Hogue

Dancing easy feat for deaf student

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The girls' gym at the high school is filled with students, some gliding along, others tripping over their feet and their partner's.

Linda Hill, the instructor, barks out directions in the dance class, required for all seniors. Some students adapt easily. Others stumble along, a little behind the beat of the blaring music.

But Zeke Hogue carefully watches the feet of his classmates. His eyes never leave their feet as he attempts to coordinate his own.

He is oblivious to the music and unaware of the directions Hill continues to give, because he can't hear them. Zeke Hogue is deaf.

"This is a real new idea," Hill said. "Zeke is the first deaf student we've ever had in the class but he has memorized the steps so well he knows them as well as or better than a hearing student."

To prove this, Zeke and his partner, Caryn Miller, perform a fox trot.

"He has been a wonderful addition to this class," Hill said. "The kids are very kind to each other and try to teach each other. They clap for Zeke. They know the trouble they're having and they're real happy to see Zeke do it. It's been a learning experience for them."

Zeke, 20, has been deaf since birth. He has been at the high school for three years and will graduate this May. He is the grandson of Josephine Hogue.

Through an interpreter, Zeke said he liked dancing and that he had learned a lot from the class. Although he said he had to think about the steps and about what he had to do next, he thought dancing was pretty easy.

His partner, Caryn, said that Zeke didn't know the names of the dances. "He identifies the dance from the steps. He has to pay a lot more attention, though," she said.

Elizabeth Hall, an interpreter at GCHS who has worked with Zeke for many years, said the dance class gives Zeke a chance to socialize.

"It has been really wonderful watching him get involved and enjoying himself with the other kids," Hall said.

Zeke said he would use his new steps during school dances this spring.

The class ended last week with the semester change and Hill told Zeke what a wonderful job he had done and how proud she was of him.

Zeke blushed and shyly "signed" her a thank you. Then he was off to graphic arts class.

Psalm 40:3 "And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God."

The mercies of God were abundant in the life of David, King of Israel. He has received an answer to prayer and God had turned his life around. David must have been at the lowest point of his life. He called it a horrible pit, full of miry clay.

David prayed. He also waited patiently. We must not get anxious when we pray. Pray, then trust God for the answer. He hears you!

God brought David out of the pit. He put his feet on solid ground and established his goings. And God will turn your life around also. Nothing is impossible with God.

Let Him bring you out. Today.

Entries were judged on the sole criterion of creativity and two grand-prize winners received $50,000 college scholarships.

Held annually, the Crayola National Coloring Event is organized to encourage children's creativity and recognize outstanding achievement.

For a 1989 entry form, youngsters may send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: 1989 Crayola National Coloring Event, P.O. Box 598, Easton, Pa. 18044-0598, Attn.: Consumer Communications.

911 question dialed into April 4 ballot

By John D. Milazzo
Staff affiliate

EDWARDSVILLE — Voters in Madison County will be asked to show on the April 4 ballot whether they want to pay for a 911 emergency telephone system.

As expected, the Madison County Board on Wednesday voted unanimously to place on the ballot the establishment of a 65-cent monthly telephone surcharge to pay for the system.

The board's action followed more than a year of county board discussion and study of the proposal. This study included formation of a special county task force charged with determining the cost and benefits of countywide 911 service.

Voters of St. Clair County in November approved the same 65-cent surcharge for a 911 system.

If Madison County voters approve the surcharge, they will see the 65-cent fee on monthly telephone statements beginning with the first bill issued 90 days after the April 4 vote has been certified.

The 65-cent charge, the maximum allowed under a state law passed last year, will then remain in place at least two years and possibly three.

The exact time will depend on how long it takes to implement the startup of the system, according to Alan Dunstan, D-Troy, chairman of the county board's legislative committee and the task force that recommended the 911 system.

Over a period of two years the surcharge is estimated to generate $1,059,240. After the initial equipment and installations costs are met, the county board would be empowered to lower the charge to 35 cents per month.

"Once this is on line, assuming our figures are correct, we will probably be able to lower it," Dunstan said.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Can a person be found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) if he is not actually operating a moving vehicle but rather is "sleeping it off" in a parked car? This question arose in a recent case when the defendant's car was found in a ditch with the defendant slumped over the steeing wheel, passed out.

The Illinois Vehicle Code provides that a person shall not drive or be in actual physical control of any vehicle while the alcohol concentration in his blood is .10 or more or when he is under the influence of alcohol. The question in many of these cases is what constitutes "actual physical control" of a vehicle. It is well established under Illinois law that a person need not be actually operating a moving vehicle to be convicted of a DUI. Proof that the defendant was in the driver's seat, possessed the ignition key, and had the physical capability of starting the engine establishes actual physical control.

In the case noted above, the defendant testified that when the police officer found him in his car, he was lying on the front seat and was sleeping. He denied drinking any alcohol prior to driving into the ditch. He maintained that only after he realized he was stuck in the ditch did he drink two cans of beer he had in the back seat. He felt he should not be convicted of driving under the influence since there was no evidence that he drove while he was intoxicated.

The Appellate Court noted that a defendant could be in actual physical control of his vehicle even though he was asleep in it. Courts have noted that a sleeping person behind the wheel of a parked car can readily move into a driving position where he can endanger others.

This particular court noted that this case merely involved the frequently found circumstance of an intoxicated defendant sleeping in his car after driving it into a ditch. It noted that while the defendant provided a version of how he came to be drunk in a ditch, the trial court was not obligated to belive him. Therefore, there was sufficient evidence presented to find that the defendant was in "actual physical control" of his vehicle, and the Appellate Court affirmed the conviction of the defendant in this matter.

Marilyn Monroe was unknown once, too!

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

Posterity may some day clamor to know what Cindy Coakley was like as a girl. After all, Marilyn Monroe was once an unknown. She was once just Norma Jean Baker.

On Jan. 14 in the Chicago suburb of Lincolnshire, the 18-year-old Coakley was crowned Miss Junior Illinois, beating out 64 other girls for the title. She earned the chance to compete in the Miss Junior America Pageant in Orlando, Fla., in October. The pageant was run by Junior American Universal Productions Inc., of Ohio.

But for now, Cindy Coakley is still just Cindy Coakley, a pretty, slightly star-struck senior at Granite City High School.

Check that. Her mother, Joanne, said in recent months Cindy has preferred to be called Cynthia. Every parent is familiar with this phenomenon; it signals a young adult's desire to be taken more seriously.

But you get the feeling from talking to this trim, 5-foot-6, honey-eyed blonde that if sheer ferocity of will counts for anything, people will one day take her very seriously indeed.

This is only the third contest Coakley has entered. She first entered the Miss Junior Illinois contest two years ago at the suggestion of her Sunday School teacher, Virginia Webb.

"She told me it doesn't always depend on looks, it depends on personality," Coakley said.

Personality, looks, whatever — "I bombed," she said, flashing a wide gleaming smile. She sits erect on the edge of the couch, like a model, her hands folded decorously in her lap.

"She knew she needed work," said her mother. So she went to work.

Miss Junior Illinois Cynthia Coakley

She took modeling lessons and became a model and a modeling instructor. She now works for two St. Louis agencies and said she has logged more than 1,000 hours as a professional model.

"She's busy," said Joanne Coakley of her only daughter. "She works almost every weekend at Famous Barr and Dillard's."

Joanne Coakley (who works in the pharmacy at St. Elizabeth Medical Center) and David Coakley (an electrician at Granite City Steel) also have a son, Keith, 22, who was a talented athlete as a teen-ager.

Cindy Coakley remembers all those baseball games sitting on the sidelines, out of the limelight. "I hated baseball games," she said.

Now it's her turn. "But I didn't want to leave my brother out of this story."

Coakley's schedule has her juggling modeling jobs with membership in the Student Council and pompon squad, drama and choral productions and other organizations at school.

She has a cumulative grade-point average of 3.9 for three years, and a 4.65 for last semester. She has twice been named to "Who's Who in American High Schools" and received the Youth Recognition Award from the Granite City Ambassadors.

Last fall, she won the Miss Lily of the Valley Pageant. And of course, this year she won her state title and is Orlando-bound for the nationally televised Miss Junior America.

But that's in October. Right now she's still savoring her recent victory. She hasn't been able to bring herself to let her parents take down the celebratory decorations in the family home on Victoria Drive in Pontoon Beach.

"The memories will always be there," she said. "It's something no one can ever take away."

Perhaps this thought comes to her because she is thinking a great deal about the future right now. After the Miss Junior America pageant, she will likely enter the adult category of the competition — Miss Illinois.

"It might take a while till anything good comes out of it all," she said of the contests. "But I have the patience."

The young actress/singer said her eventual goal is to be an actress in daytime TV. Meanwhile, she plans to study education at a local college.

"You can always trip and fall on your face, and you need something to back you up," she said.

But later, right out the blue, she said, "I don't think a lot of people believe me when I tell them I'm really going to do it, I'm going to go all the way."

Asked if she has any role models, Coakley quickly named Whitney Houston, the stunning looking singer whose songs have been topping the charts for a couple of years.

You might think Houston's fame is reason enough for a starstruck youngster to admire her. You might be wrong.

"It's because she started out singing in her church," Coakley said.

A member of the West 22nd Street Baptist Church, where her grandfather Rudolph Noel was once pastor, Coakley said, "I've always been raised to believe that church is the first place you should be."

Her faith will doubtless come in handy. Coakley is already discovering one of the drawbacks of fame and success — jealousy.

She's hearing it at school. A cloud seemed to cross her face momentarily as she said, "Some of my friends don't like me anymore."

The cloud lifted, but it returned later as she recounted how a few kids at school have asked for her autograph, then sneered and walked away laughing.

She stared off into space, perhaps into a future only she could see. The brilliant smile returned. "I'll show them," it seemed to say.

Just think of all the Norma Jeans.

A 'WELCOME HOME' SIGN fills the picture window on the Coakley residence that greeted Cynthia when she returned from the Miss Junior Illinois pageant.

Weird science, words at play and run amok

Today, we're serving pot luck here at Andy's Cheap Chuckles and Chortles.

First item: I have great respect for science and not just because it has given us so much in the way of a higher standard of living and prolonged and improved lives through improved nutrition and medical advances. To be sure, science has also given us a variety of cancer-causing chemicals and the possibility of total nuclear annihilation, but on balance I consider science a force for good.

I just wish the scientists would get their collective act together. I mean, really, it's kind of like following a slow-moving soap opera. About the time everybody has gotten the word about the Greenhouse Effect and how it's going to forever alter LIFE AS WE KNOW IT (ta-da!), along comes a blue-ribbon panel to say, in effect, "Vell, folks, ve may haff been wrong about dott after all."

That's what CBS radio's Charles Osgood was saying this morning in commenting on a government-sponsored study. These scientists went back 100 years and analyzed temperature and precipitation patterns. They found nothing to indicate that a buildup of carbon dioxide from burning fossil fuels is causing the earth to warm up.

I fully expect to hear next week that we should all eat lots of eggs, cheese and fat red meat.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT DEPARTMENT:

- From a clock's point of view, do its hands move counterclockwise?
- Is a chicken just an egg's way of making another egg?
- Given the quality of workmanship nowadays, in the future will antiques be a thing of the past?
- How come there's so much month left at the end of the money?
- Babe Ruth struck out 1,330 times.

A laxative maker named its product Serutan and told customers it was Natures spelled backward. What if you did that with the antacid Tums? Or the liqueur Bols?

What if you named a brand of brassiere Embargo?

That man of multitudinous letters George Bernard Shaw once properly pointed out that fish may be spelled ghoti. How? Simply consider the letters in parentheses in the following words and how the words are pronounced.

Cou(gh) / W(o)men / Na(ti)on. Fish equals ghoti.

Here's a classic along the same lines by an anonymous author:

Do Go Cork and Work

I take it you already know
Of tough and bough and
Cough and dough?
Others may stumble,
But not you
On hiccough, thorough,
Laugh, and through?
I write in case you wish perhaps
To learn of less familiar traps:
Beware of heard,
A dreadful word
That looks like beard,
And sounds like bird.
And dead: it's said like bed,
not bead;
For goodness' sake,
Don't call it deed!
Watch out for meat
And great and threat
(They rhyme with suite
And straight and debt).
A moth is not a moth
In mother,
Nor both in bother,
Broth in brother.
And here is not a match for
there,
Nor dear for bear,
Or fear for pear.
There's dose and rose,
There's also lose
(Just look them up),
And goose, and choose,
And cork and work,
And font and front,
And word and sword,
And do and go,
So, sew and sow.
A dreadful language? Man
alive,
I'd mastered it when I was five!

Latch key kids need important instruction

The following article is by Mary Lou Garbe, Extension adviser in home economics with the University of Illinois.

It's important for children to be polite when they answer the door or phone — but it's far more important for them to be safe. Children who stay home alone for any length of time should be taught three important safety rules:

- Never to open the door to a stranger.
- Never to let a stranger know they're home alone.
- And to call a neighbor or parent if a stranger makes them upset or asks too many questions, or they don't know what to do.

If the stranger asks if the youngster is home alone, the child should simply say, "My mom can't come to the phone right now. May I take a message?"

The best way to teach children these safety rules is to act out different situations with them. Even if you've talked about safety before, don't assume the child will know what to do when there's a knock on the door or the phone rings. Children often think they understand when they really don't. A game of "let's pretend" can help the child put the rules into practice — and it can help parents find out if the child really does know what to do when a stranger calls.

In addition to role playing with your child, it would be a good idea to make a list of emergency numbers, including the number of the person to call if he or she has a problem dealing with a stranger.

•Shooting

Smith said that Melissa and he had argued in the company of friends earlier that evening over plans for the coming weekend. Later while the two were alone at the residence, Smith said, Melissa removed a gun from a dresser drawer in the master bedroom, threatening to kill herself for fear that Smith would "go out and cheat on her."

He testified that, at that time, he took the gun away from her and returned it to the drawer. The couple "made up" shortly after, he said.

Smith testified that the two had been drinking whiskey and smoking marijuana. Smith also said that Melissa had previously threatened to kill herself following a breakup of their friendship.

Later on the evening of her death, he said, Melissa returned to the bedroom and got the gun again while Smith was out of the room.

Smith originally told police that when she repeated her threat a struggle ensued, during which the gun went off. He later said that he was in sole possession of the gun when it discharged.

He testified that he was attempting to release the hammer, which had been pulled back, when the gun went off. Melissa died of a single gunshot wound to the head.

Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said an autopsy showed that death was instant and that the shot was fired at close range, within 18 inches.

Burke further said that toxicological reports showed Melissa's blood alcohol was .192, concluding that she was "highly intoxicated at the time of her death." Burke said it was possible that the girl had inhaled marijuana smoke but not a clinically significant amount.

•Engineers

Flood Protection group has been assured by the Engineer Corps that "within the constraints of available funding, rehabilitation of the MESD flood control facilities can be achieved."

Broadway quoted Ron Lindsay, Engineer Corps planner, as saying that "Horner & Shifrin was directed to identify every conceivable action item which would improve the facilities to an as-new, state-of-the art condition. Not all of the items included in this estimate need to be included in the project."

For example, there is a significant contingency estimate of $6,123,000, Lindsay said. In addition, there are some items that are beyond the project's scope.

About half of the project cost is for clearing drainage channels — work which will be prioritized. It is believed that the MESD can accomplish lesser priorities without federal assistance after it is relieved of much of its current burden of "keeping an old, dilapidated system running," Lindsay told the citizens.

Broadway said, "Lindsay has indicated this report is not a statement of everything that needs to be done to make the system function satisfactorily, but rather it is a planning report or order-of-magnitude estimate of everything which could be justified as an action item if funding were available.

"Based on assurances from the Corps, completion of the prioritized elements of this report (using the $23 million available upon approval of the Feb. 28 referendum), will restore the MESD facilities and avert the threats of flooding and of economic decline in our region."

Among other tasks, Horner & Shifrin inspected 10 drainage channels and 85 structures, including 27 gatewell closure structures.

It found that, "in general, work is needed at virtually all facilities."

A $24,493,000 cost projection consisted of: pumping stations $2,187,000, control structures $1,806,000, gatewells $200,000, gravity drains $298,000, bridges $1,895,000, panel closure structures $124,000, channel improvements $17,900,000, sanitary sewer lift stations $82,000 and flood walls $1,000.

Along with the $24,493,000, the report lists the $6,123,000 contingency allocation plus $3,674,000 for engineering and design, $2,449,000 for supervision and administrative costs and $242,000 for supplemental studies.

Preference for use of the room will still be given to disciplinary action cases, Superintendent Dan Kostencki said. "But those cases have been down drastically this year, providing more room for utilizing it in this way," he said.

Mehelic said the system will be experimental during the current semester and will operate like the school's program on tardiness.

A student who has not turned in three assignments will be given a warning by the teacher. The fourth incomplete assignment will result in three days of detention during which the teacher will require the student to complete the missed assignments.

Students who still refuse to do assignments or are habitual offenders will be placed in the in-school suspension class at the discretion of the principal.

"It is a way of dealing with those students who adamantly refuse to do their work," Mehelic said.

I-255, other facilities can unify our bi-state region

The completion of Interstate 255 was not the top regional story of 1988 but it could well be a factor in a number of important news events in 1989 and succeeding years. Among those taking particular interest in the highway are officials of Pontoon Beach, which has annexed several 255 intersections.

I-255 is of great significance for a number of reasons, including the fact that — in combination with I-270 — it forms a circumferential route around the bi-state St. Louis metropolitan area.

Ned Taddeucci, Regional Commerce and Growth Association president, sees the completed highway loop and the final I-255 section as having a big and favorable impact on economic development within the entire region and southwestern Illinois. He praises the federal and state governments for their foresight in planning, funding and expediting the project.

Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson correctly views the interstate highway as an opportunity to unite the bi-state area. Now that the region is so accessible, it makes less and less sense for developers to push ever farther westward, creating a lopsided urbanized area that ignores many ideal Illinois sites.

Further advances can and should be made. Examples:

•Current rehabilitation of the Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge, including linking it more closely to the Interstate system so that it can ease the Poplar Street Bridge's heavy traffic volume.

•Construction of the Metro Link "light rail" commuter line between East St. Louis, downtown St. Louis and Lambert Airport.

•Extension of Metro Link, once it is built, to other areas of Missouri and Illinois, including tracks to Madison County and to Belleville and Scott.

•Expansion of the Jefferson Expansion Memorial from the Gateway Arch area across the Mississippi River to include a riverfront park in East St. Louis.

•Creation of joint military-civilian use of Scott Air Force Base near Belleville, enabling the bi-state area to avoid the kind of air travel congestion that could hamper the whole area's future.

•Improvement of the McKinley Bridge, allowing it to more fully share some of the burden of daily vehicular river crossings. It has the same problem that faced the King Bridge: a toll-collection financial base competing with free bridges, with the resulting funds inadequate to retire bond debt and pay for needed maintenance and renovation.

High honor for Cindy Coakley

This community has produced many pageant winners, and the latest is Cynthia Ann Coakley, who has qualified to compete in the nationally televised Miss Junior America contest at Orlando, Fla., in October.

The new Miss Junior Illinois resides in Pontoon Beach and is a senior student at Granite City High School. She is a beautiful and talented singer, model, actress and speaker and will do an outstanding job representing the Quad City area and all of Illinois.

Rep. Costello in a unique position

Commentary

The following column is by former Granite City resident Kevin Sabo, now living in Falls Church, Va.

Newly-elected Congressman Jerry Costello has landed himself in a truly unique position. Less than 6 months after accepting his new job, he is on his way to seeing his salary increase by 50 percent. Such an opportunity would be an envy to us all but for the fact that Mr. Costello is a public servant.

Members of the U.S. Congress currently receive an annual salary of $89,500, a salary well above most households in this area. A recent report by the "Quadrennial Commission of Executive, Legislative and Judicial Pay" recommended to increase Congressional pay to $135,000.

In exchange, members of Congress will give up the long-established practice of accepting speaking fees when they address constituent groups. President Reagan decided to accept the commission's recommendations, which allows the raises to go into effect on Feb. 8 unless both houses of Congress vote to reject them. The average senator received $31,380 in speaking fees in 1987; the average House member, $15,530. Most of this money was earned by the more senior committee chairmen or other Congressional leaders.

Illinois' Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, for example, earned hundreds of thousands of dollars in speaking fees and was forced to give most of it to charities. Newly elected members frequently receive no speaking fees at all during their first term in Congress. Therefore, a freshman member of Congress will receive a 50 percent pay raise while giving up nothing in speaking fees.

The pay raise will be the first tough issue Cong. Costello has been forced to face since his first election only a few months ago. Unfortunately, due to a procedural "escape clause" placed into the law by a previous Congress, there is no guarantee that his vote will be recorded on this issue. Regardless of a formal vote, however, many residents and voters will anxiously await the reaction Mr. Costello displays toward his new-found wealth.

Already, Congressional leaders are developing a strategy to gain acceptance of the pay raise while still providing political cover to their colleagues.

The most likely scenario discussed would call for the Senate to pass a resolution rejecting the President's proposals soon after Congress reconvenes on Jan. 20. Then, the House would allow the 30-day deadline to pass with no vote at all. The pay raises would go into effect automatically. On the next day, the House would vote on a speaking fee ban. The Senate would follow with a similar vote later in the month.

This scheme not only allows for the outrageous pay raises to go into effect, but also thwarts our democratic form of government. The public will never truly know their representative's honest views and the issue will be long forgotten by the next election.

Letters will go out of nearly every Congressional office telling constituents how Congress did not want to accept the pay raise, but was forced to accept them in order to end the scandalous practice of accepting speaking fees.

Since the founding of the nation, Congress has struggled with public reaction when increasing its own pay. As early as 1816, Congress tried to shift from $6 per diem pay set in 1789 to a $1,500 annual salary with a retroactive pay raise. That autumn, the public reacted negatively and several members were defeated, including the well-known Daniel Webster.

The single largest pay increase came in 1873 when Congress awarded itself a 50 percent increase, from $5,000 to $7,500, retroactive over the two previous years. On March 3, 1873, the bill was approved by both the House and the Senate. President Grant signed it on the same day, so before heading to their home districts, congressmen lined up to get their retroactive loot. By Jan. 20 of 1874, the next Congress had repealed the pay raise and required members to pay back their "bonus." Few members actually did.

Aware of the publicity generated when they propose their own pay raise, Congress members established the Quadrennial Commission in 1967. Its goal was to meet every four years to recommend salary changes, relieving Congress of the politically troublesome task of raising members' pay. At that time, members were paid $30,000 per year. Today, that amount has soared to nearly three times.

Mr. Costello has hardly had an opportunity to demonstrate his worth to the people of his district before this outrageous pay raise will go into effect. He should oppose the raise and lead the opposition in calling for a vote to have it overturned. If Congress does allow this travesty to continue, Costello should turn the money back into the Treasury or, better yet, he should use the funds to establish a college scholarship for area disadvantaged youths.

Whatever becomes of the money, it should not fall into the pockets of a newly elected member of Congress until the people of the 21st Congressional District say that he is worth it.

Let our public servant make money the old-fashioned way: let him earn it!

Paramedics know their stuff

To the editor:

Within the past two weeks, in two separate emergencies, it was necessary for us to call an ambulance for our neighbor.

Residents of Granite City should know that their paramedics and the firefighters, too, are a fantastic team, each performing his duties with kindness and understanding.

We want to publicly express our feelings and appreciation and say: Thank you, gentlemen.

There are nice people in town

To the editor:

We read and hear of bad things that happen every day, but how often do we read of the good things?

Well, I am going to tell you about my close call and my miracle.

About two weeks before Christmas, I did some grocery shopping at our National Store here in Granite. It was right at 4:30 p.m. when I put my groceries in my trunk. I drove off and, about a block away, I noticed my purse was not in the passenger seat where I always set it. What had I done? I turned around as soon as I could. Lord, please help me. I kept saying this over and over.

My parking space was still there and my basket was still there, but no purse. Maybe I put it in the trunk. No, it wasn't there. I am devastated.

Then I heard someone call my name, twice. I turned around and there in a small truck was a man calling me. "Are you looking for your purse?" he asked. He had pulled in to park and, when he got out, he saw my purse that I had left in the basket.

He apologized for looking in my billfold to see who the purse belonged to. He was driving out of the lot when he saw me. He handed me my purse and patted my hand, saying, "Calm down, dear, and have a merry Christmas," and drove away. I never got his name.

Nothing was missing in my purse. If by chance he should read this, I tell him again, "May God bless you."

Doesn't this prove there are some nice people in this town?

Here's tip: That dollar sure helps

I'm here to offer some good advice — you might say a tip. Several tips, in fact, on tipping.

ABELexpress, a business in Pittsburgh, recently produced a handy wallet-sized card that lists the tips that various vocations desire in return for services rendered. Featured are the typical careers of waitresses, bellboys and shoe shiners. But add to that list some occupations you might not have considered. How about baby-sitters? Manicurists? Leg waxers? Yes, according to the Pennsylvania firm, those workers deserve a tip.

To help you get through your daily travels, this column of reader service reprints a few of the tips here.

Baby-sitters should get up to 15 percent (higher after midnight); electrolysis, 15-35 percent ($1 minimum); leg waxers, 10-15 percent ($2 minimum); bartenders, up to 10 percent, ($1 minimum); waitresses, 15 percent; and messengers, 50 cents to $1.

Doormen should get $1 for unloading a car. (Loading was not addressed, but stuffing Samsonite into a Toyota has to cost more than a Cadillac).

The waitress category contained an asterisk, which referred to a line at the bottom of the card: "*More for special services." It didn't say what special services were, and I declined to guess.

Ear piercers and "sun tanners" are recommended for no tip. Too well paid, I suppose. But what if they locked the tanning booth until you paid up?

Also, in case you're wondering what to do if you've had poor service, the card recommends leaving 25 cents. That way the workers will know that you did not forgot a tip. On the other hand, they might assume you were just plain cheap, too.

Shoe shiners should get 50 cents (25 cents a foot?); bellhops, 50 cents a bag; and facial treatments, up to 20 percent.

Add all this up and a trip out of town is likely to cost more in tips than in gas.

While this card might do some people good, I doubt it will have much effect on reporters. This journalist's tip: Never expect a tip from a journalist.

Collecting baseball cards like 'playing the lottery'

ST. LOUIS — Collecting baseball cards "is like playing the lottery," says dealer Aaron Bergman.

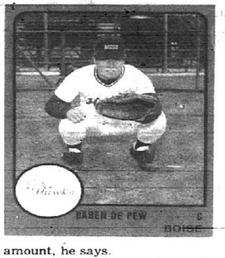
In plunking down his 40 cents, the collector is hoping to hit the jackpot, to open his pack of cards and find that one card he can sell for a princely sum.

Or at least a card that's worth 40 cents, the price of the investment, says Bergman, the owner of Comics, Card and More, a store in Overland.

The popularity of the player and the team he plays on determines a baseball card's market price, he says.

The rookie card for Ozzie Smith, arguably the best defensive shortstop in baseball today, is worth "only $10 to $15," Bergman says.

But if the Oz played in the media centers of New York or Los Angeles, the card issued his first year in the big leagues would be worth triple that amount, he says.



"Rookie cards are the ones speculators get into because they have more room for growth," Bergman says.

Salomon Brothers, an investment banking firm, calculated the compound annual return of rookie cards at 42.5 percent for the 10 years ended in 1987.

Prices can be steep. Henry Aaron's rookie card now is worth $600, Willie Mays', $1,200, Mickey Mantle's, $6,000. A 1909 Honus Wagner recently sold for $110,000.

The popularity of Dwight Gooden drove his rookie card to $9 his first season, 1984; it now is worth $60.

The ebb and flow of popularity affects prices. Jose Canseco's rookie card started at $1.50, climbed to $8, then $15 by the end of his rookie season, 1986, Bergman says. The price slipped with the emergence of teammate Mark McGuire the next season.

But when Canseco began to close in on the feat of hitting 40 home runs and stealing 40 bases last season, "his card shot from $15 to $60 in about four months," Bergman says.

Home improvements are hot as owners raise sales price

By Roger McGrath
Staff affiliate

ST. LOUIS — Homeowners who have put in a gourmet kitchen with all the trappings may have cooked up a profit if they want to sell that house. Buyers today are infatuated with such kitchens and are willing to pay more for a house with a gourmet center, local real estate agents say.

Welcome to the world of home improvements and what a finished basement, remodeled master bath, room addition or other improvement can add to the value—the sale price—of a house.

Home improvement is a big business. For every $1 St. Louisans have spent on houses built in 1988, another $1.20 has been spent on improvements by all area homeowners, says William Krueger, president of the St. Louis chapter of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI).

"When a person invests in their home, that's a long-lasting, appreciating investment," Krueger says.

Not all improvements are created equal. Among the best are an energy-efficient fireplace, which can return 80 percent to 125 percent of its cost. That means of every dollar spent on the fireplace, 80 cents to $1.25 is added to the value of the house.

Remodeled kitchens and baths can return 80 percent of their cost; ditto for decks.

Among the worst improvements: solar greenhouse, operable skylight, sauna, and weather-stripping and insulation. They all of return less than one-third of their cost, according to an analysis by Better Homes and Gardens, says Bill Ridings, manager of the Maryland Heights branch of Gundaker Realtors/Better Homes and Gardens.

NARI and the magazine disagree in several areas, however. For example, the remodelers say homeowners can expect replacement doors to return 60 percent of their cost, replacement windows 43 percent, a new roof 75 percent. Better Homes and Gardens, for each improvement, pegs the recovery at 20 percent at best.

Beauty, of course, is in the eye of the beholder.

"And right now our society is very intrigued with kitchens and baths," says Bernice Cooke, president of Blake and Davis Realtors. "In fact, if you do a really fabulous job on a gourmet kitchen, you might make money."

"Baths—we're really making them luxury rooms. That's a real hot market," says Krueger, who also is president of Midwest Youngstown Industries, a remodeler.

Krueger sees a lot of requests for maintenance-free siding. Thermal windows "are becoming a bigger and bigger item," he said.

Even improvements that do not add much to a home's price— swimming pools and finished basements are prime examples— still have value. A finished rathskeller "just never seems to pay off," Ridings says. "What it does is make the house sell faster. Those improvements make a house more saleable. It sells faster if it has all the bells and whistles."

Mobile-home owners leery of park manager

Dear Mr. Campbell:

What rights, if any, do mobile-home owners have when they move into a mobile-home park? My mother, who lives in such a park in southern California, has experienced things that would suggest she and the others — all at least 55 years old — who live there have very few rights, if any.

As is customary, all of these people own their mobile homes and lease their lots from management and pay their rent monthly. They also signed an agreement that they will maintain their home and property.

Recently, however, management has started making changes that sound awfully peculiar to me. They have told the residents that they must replace their black-top driveways with concrete by March. They have told residents they must remove their carports, which were attached to the mobile homes when the residents bought their units. Management allegedly required one woman to paint her home and clean her rugs.

I can understand the painting and general upkeep for the community's well-being. But aren't these other requirements capital improvements for which management is responsible? The management also uses its "right" to assess extra fees and to approve or disapprove all sales of the mobile homes. This appears to me virtual confiscation of one's rights over his or her personal property without due process.

S.L.

Answer: Good grief. Into what sort of shark tank did your mother fall? My disbelief matches yours.

While certainly not typical of mobile-home park management, according to John Jensen, chairman of the National Federation of Mobile Home Owners in Redmond, Wash., it is not unknown, either.

Jensen's federation is an amalgamation of state organizations representing about 3 million mobile-home owners nationally and studies the state and local ordinances protecting, or not protecting, mobile-home owners from voracious park operators. Unlike conventional renters who, when unhappy with their landlords' demands, can simply move out, the average mobile-home owner is about as "mobile" as a building.

In the case of your mother's mobile-home park, Jensen suspects that management has exhausted its tax depreciation. "And when that happens the owner of the park simply stops maintaining it or, as much as possible, coerces the tenants into making the repairs and capital improvements that he should be making."

Can they get away with it? In a depressing percentage of cases they can and do.

"It's not uncommon for the park operator — when his depreciation has run out — to have the park rezoned to a 'higher usage' and simply have everyone thrown out," Jensen said.

Jensen recommends that your mother and her fellow tenants start exploring the purchase of the park, themselves, so that they can control their own destiny and put a ceiling on their otherwise uncontrollable rents and assessments.

There's no place for emotion when making market moves

By Bob Hardcastle

At this time last year, the prophets of gloom and doom were talking about new lows in the stock market. Would the Dow Jones industrial average go below 1700? If so, how far?

As we know, the decline did not occur and the stock market in 1988 closed higher than it did in 1987. But there still seem to be a lot of bears gripped by a negative economic syndrome that could influence the market to go lower.

The market's high in 1988 was 2183.50; a low of 1903.51 came around this time last year. The market closed 229.74 points higher in 1988 than it did in 1987, which is a significant increase in view of the volume of negative predictions.

But despite the 12 percent rise in 1988, there still is a lot of pessimism.

Frustration was the norm last year in the market. People were afraid to stay too long; when the market zig-zagged or moved lower, investors bailed out quickly. When the market moved up, many investors stayed on the sidelines until they saw increases during several consecutive days. Then the market often would begin moving down, further confusing investors —who were not sure to begin with — about climbing aboard.

I tell my clients that when they are considering investing, they should pick a point at which they will feel comfortable getting in or out of the market. By picking these predetermined points of entry or exit, the investor can avoid the types of emotional decisions that wreak havoc with sleep in the wee hours of the morning.

Making money in the investment field is tough enough without involving our emotions. Emotion generally convinces us to sell when the market is bottoming out and buy when it is peaking.

'89: Finances certainly look uncertain

The following guest column is from Dennis Nobbe, a representative of Edward D. Jones and Co. in Granite City.

Although the beginning of 1989 marks the passage of 15 months since Oct. 19, 1987, investors are still trembling. In fact, many feel the 1988 investment climate constantly fluctuated between highs and lows. In reality, market volatility appeared worse than it actually was.

1988 began with the Dow Jones Industrial Average at 1938,83, and although the Dow did experience ups and downs throughout the year, it is now roughly 12 percent higher than it began.

The stock and bond markets provided investors solid returns of roughly 10 percent. While this may be disappointing to those who rode the raging bull market to its record high in September 1987, these results compare favorably with historical returns.

January 1988 saw long-term investments offering investors considerably higher interest rates than their short-term counterparts, but during the year short term rates rose sharply while long-term interest rates changed very little. The results was a flat yield curve, which means the difference between interest paid on long- and short-term investments is minimal.

What does the year ahead hold? The only certainty is uncertainty. We can count on a trade deficit that needs lessening, a budget that needs balancing and the leadership of a new president. However, what role these factors will play in 1989's investment climate is anyone's guess.

Two other factors that must be considered are inflation and recession. Some economists fear a recession is eminent because the economy has begun to slow after six years of uninterrupted growth. On a more positive note, however, unemployment remains at a 14-year low, personal consumption remains strong, and the nation's manufacturers have proved to be a bright spot in the economy.

Because U.S. companies have spent the past few years putting cost-cutting measures into place, earning per share for many companies should increase throughout 1989 in spite of a slower economy. In fact, earnings per share for the Dow Jones Industrials are expected to surpass 1988's record-setting mark. Another factor in equity investors' favor is the recent rash of mergers and acquisitions, which have taken a great deal of stock out of circulation. This has lessened the likelihood of sharp sell-offs, making equities more attractive for investors in 1989.

Another positive note is bridled inflation. It has proved manageable during 1988 thanks largely to the efforts of the Federal Reserve System and declining oil prices. While economic growth will probably be minimal — 1½ percent to 2 percent — inflation in '89 is forecasted to remain around 5 percent as the Federal Reserve System continues its battle against inflation.

Taking these factors into consideration, here are some additional investment suggestions made by the Research Department of a major New York Stock Exchange firm.

•1. Avoid over investing in Certificates of Deposit and other short-term investments. While the current flattened interest yield curve makes short-term investments appear as attractive as long-term investments, history shows that each time a flat or inverted yield curve has occurred, short-term interest rates have fallen dramatically, with long-term also falling, although not dramatically.

•2. Limit exposure to high-yield bond funds. Excessive borrowing by companies for mergers and takeovers may create difficulties for these firms in the future should a recession occur.

•3. Add to your holdings of quality tax-exempt bonds. Whether or not income taxes rise in the next few years, tax-exempt bonds offer excellent value to investors.

•4. As mentioned before, now is an excellent time to invest in quality common stocks and mutual funds.

It is impossible to predict how the investment climate will react in 1989; however, the basic investment rule of diversification is timeless. Diversifying your dollars among a variety of investments is always the safest investment move.

Beware of minimal investment business opportunity scams

By Neil F. Hartigan
Illinois Attorney General

Q. I recently read an ad in the newspaper for a business opportunity with a minimal investment. Is this a legitimate business opportunity?

A. Probably not. The classic business opportunity swindle unfolds this way: The con man places ads filled with glowing promises.

Potential investors are invited to call a toll-free number for more information and application forms. Once the investor expresses interest, a meeting is arranged at a nearby motel where the con man promises prompt delivery, high-quality merchandise, low costs, untapped markets, and minimal risk of loss.

The investor gives his money to the con man and leaves with a slick catalog book and an order form.

The con man leaves town and supplies the investor with a small amount of over-priced, shoddy merchandise and none of the promised advice and assistance.

Business opportunity swindles strip tens of thousands of investors each year of $500 million.

These scams run from a few hundred dollars for an over-priced start-up inventory of industrial-strength cleanser to a $12,000 equity investment in a money-losing car wash or a non-existent franchise chain.

A business opportunity offering can involve just about anything, but often includes a substantial initial payment which the investor is required to make to a supplier company in exchange for a supply of inventory and a promise of assistance.

A franchise agreement involves an apparent company (the franchisor) and the franchisee (independent businessman).

Under a typical franchise agreement, the franchisor, who has developed a product or service and a recognizable trade name, contracts with the franchisee to provide start-up assistance, and the right to sell the franchisor's product or service under a uniform marketing and quality control plan.

Investors considering a franchise should be wary of high-pressured sales tactics, promises of sky-high profits, claims of minimal risks, unjustified start-up costs, and evasive answers or failure to disclose information.

Be sure to check out the product, size up the market, analyze profit claims, determine all restrictions, find out the level of assistance, get names of investors and franchise owners, and check out their background. Check with our office regarding franchise laws in Illinois.

Little Caesars donates to Easter Seal Society after month-long effort

Little Caesars Pizza has announced a total contribution of $1,807 to the Easter Seal Society of Southwestern Illinois, for its month-long Crazy Bread promotion held in November.

Five area franchises, located in Alton, Belleville, Edwardsville, Granite City and Wood River, voluntarily participated in the nationwide Little Caesars Pizza fund-raising effort.

Easter Seals received 25 cents from every order of hot, buttered Crazy bread purchased throughout the month.

Collection cans placed in each franchise resulted in $98 for Easter Seals as well.

The Belleville franchise is owned by Don Kleindl and Marty Sommer.

Bill Hoey owns the Alton, Edwardsville, Granite City and Wood River stores.

Little Caesars Pizza is a national corporate sponsor for the Easter Seal Society.

Its fund-raising goal for 1988 was set at $200,000 nationally.

Little Caesars is the world's largest carry-out pizza chain, with estimated sales of $1 billion for 1988.

Currently, there are 1,900 locations, in all 50 states.

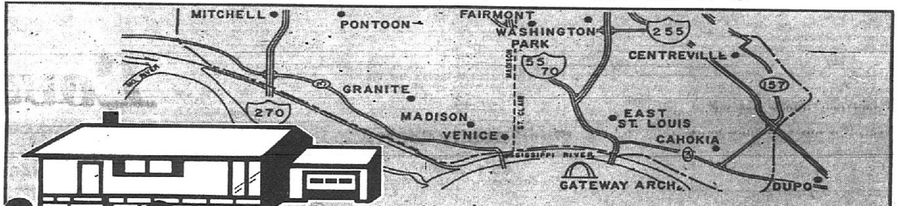
WE NEED YOU!!



Your home ... your most valued asset ... is in danger in this floodplain region of ours ... whether there is a flood or not!

An important message to ALL HOMEOWNERS from ...
The Citizens for Flood Protection Committee

It is well known that we live in a floodplain, that since 1907 we've been protected by levees and floodgates that the Army Corps of Engineers says are now dangerously deteriorated.

In fact, in October of 1986, one floodgate blew away from the force of the river and one of our area communities went under water. Property damage exceeded $18 million. Citizens suffered losses from which they have not yet recovered.

Many of us believe "it can't happen here." But the Corps of Engineers says otherwise. All of our homes are vulnerable.

Even if there is no flood, the Corps has warned that we must either renew our flood protection system or suffer personal losses and economic strangulation in our region.

Why is this?

The Corps is required to let the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) know if our flood protection system no longer works, if our region has "reverted to unprotected floodplain status."

FEMA is then obligated to prohibit federally chartered lenders from financing any developments in unprotected areas.

This would mean no mortgage loans for construction or sale of homes. No financing for development of any kind. To sell your home, you would need a cash buyer. You could lose thousands.

In addition, your only financial protection from flood damage would be flood insurance. And in an unprotected floodplain, such coverage costs hundreds of dollars, if it is available at all.

We can avert both the threat of flooding and the economic devastation of unprotected floodplain status by using $23 million in federal grants to renew our flood protection system.

Our costs as taxpayers would be only 26.12 cents per $100 assessed valuation for five years. About $1 per week for the owner of a $60,000 home. Only $26 per year on a $30,000 home.

But to do this, we must vote YES on February 28 for the Metro-East Sanitary District Flood Protection Question.

If you own a home or earn your living in this region, you have much at stake on February 28. It is in your interest to ...

Read our lips: No new taxes, or should state services expand?

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

First myth: It's always the Democrats who want to "tax, tax, tax, spend, spend, spend and elect, elect, elect."

In the Illinois state government, four-term Gov. Jim Thompson, Republican, wants to raise the income tax. He is being thwarted, for the third year in a row, by four-term House Speaker Mike Madigan, Democrat.

Second myth: If you reduce the size of the Illinois House and have single-member districts, there'll be less control by politicians.

Wrong. Madigan is so powerful that Thompson already has given up the fight for a tax rise in 1989.

HOW HIGH should taxes go? How low should the quality and quantity of governmental services fall? The two officials differ sharply.

Thompson has been popular partly because he could "deliver" — a wide variety of state help for communities and regions. Now, he is being held on a tight leash and is being left in an obvious position of weakness.

Some lawmakers think he is being punished for taking too much partisan credit for Build Illinois infrastructure programs that were enacted by legislators of both parties.

WHO WILL BENEFIT politically if Madigan's penny-pinching cripples Thompson's effectiveness? The governor hasn't even said he wants a fifth term, and Madigan doesn't seem to be interested in the Executive Mansion.

Madigan may be maneuvering to help whoever gets the Democratic nomination. Favorites are Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan and Comptroller Roland W. Burris. If Thompson doesn't run in 1990, the Republican favorite would be Secretary of State Jim Edgar or Lieutenant Governor George H. Ryan.

Thompson isn't content to be the only one suffering political wounds, of course. He is firing heavy ammunition at Madigan, portraying the speaker as heartless and shortsighted. Examples:

"WE ARE IN complete agreement that Illinois is a state that lives within its means. However, we disagree over the effects of your refusal to support a modest increase in our state income tax, which is one of the lowest in the nation.

"You seem to take great pride in the fact that Illinois has not been visited by any calamities in the past two years. Well, I use a different standard to judge the progress of our great state," Thompson told Madigan.

"Too many citizens have experienced first-hand the calamities you must think are only imagined.

"WHAT ABOUT the overburdened caseworkers in the Department of Children and Family Services? Or the abused children who slip between the cracks of what is supposed to be a loving, caring system?

"What about our crowded state prisons where employees put their lives on the line to help keep the rest of us safe in our homes?

"What about the miserable conditions in Chicago's classrooms and the 155 public school districts on the State Education Board's list of financially troubled districts?

"DIDN'T YOU NOTICE that in the face of woefully inadequate support from state government, higher education tuition charges have more than doubled during the 1980s?

"Calamities? There are personal calamities. You'll find them in our mental institutions, on our streets, in our aging factories and in the pollution of our air, land and water.

"Do you support the imposition of ever-upward spiraling property taxes caused by a failure of sufficient support from state government?

"During the past two years, you have said you were unconvinced of the need for more revenues.... You said dire predictions about layoffs, closings and other calamities simply have not happened.

"WE DID AVOID layoffs and the closing of a state prison but only because the General Assembly chose to pay for salaries with revenues that otherwise would have gone to pay our bills on time — including senior citizen property tax relief.

"Rather than face up to our fiscal problems, the Legislature chose instead to ease our cash flow by using money that should have been put in the mail much earlier as tax refund checks.

"We continue State Police patrols of Chicago expressways and assistance to East St. Louis. But....we continue those services at the expense of 56 counties that have no State Police protection after midnight.

"YOU SHOULD ASK the hospitals, which serve our poor, and the doctors, who serve our poor, whether Medicaid bills are being paid on a timely basis," Thompson told Madigan.

"A modest increase in the state income tax continues to be the best solution to our funding problems, but it can only be achieved under the following conditions:

- "Democrats in the General Assembly must play a leadership role in securing its passage.
- "As the leader of the largest city in Illinois and the municipality with the most to gain from a tax increase, the mayor of Chicago must join us as an active, involved and effective participant. *****
- "SCHOOL AID must be revised. Otherwise, suburban and downstate districts will feel shortchanged by any increase.
- "Chicago school reforms must remain in place and be given an opportunity to work. And statewide school reforms must receive a reasonable amount of funding.
- "Our needs extend beyond the educational community, and there must be an equitable distribution of revenues to all of state government and all regions.
- "And we must enact reform of the state's worker's compensation system.

"THE TAX IS DEAD until these conditions are met. In my State of the State message, I will propose ways for us to move forward without an income tax increase."

House Majority Leader Jim McPike, a close associate of Madigan, defends the speaker and doesn't think the Democratic leadership should be regarded as insensitive to people's needs.

But he does advocate a more conservative approach than in the past.

He thinks both parties soon will be competing as "friends of the taxpayer" as 1990 Illinois elections approach. And he won't be surprised if Thompson is among those saying, "Read my lips. No new taxes."

Exercise videos can help keep resolutions

Home Video

By Richard Zacks

This is cruel, cruel timing. Just when holiday cheer is starting to settle onto hips and thighs and New Year's resolutions have not yet faded into memory, three reigning divas of home fitness are releasing brand-new exercise videos.

Jane Fonda, queen of the sweat set with more than 4 million tapes sold, has lunged forward with her first aerobics tape in two years: "Jane Fonda's Complete Workout" (1989, Warner, $29.98), and Raquel Welch has rolled out "Raquel: Lose 10 Pounds in 3 Weeks" (1989, HBO, $19.98). Jacki Sorensen will uncork her first tape in five years: "Jacki Sorensen's California Workout" (1989, Comar, $24.95) on Jan. 30.

One of the hardest problems with exercise videos besides inserting them into the VCR and doing the routines is trying to select them. Very few publications offer intelligent reviews. If you read the back of the cassette box they all practically promise to make you look better than Cheryl Tiegs and have higher self-esteem than Henry Kissinger.

Now there is a Consumer Reports-style catalog that lists 165 exercise titles. The list actually includes negative reviews as well as clearly describing the tapes' content.

Collage Video is not a non-profit Ralph Nader-type organization, but it is a small mail-order business with shockingly honest product information. (For free catalogs write to them at 5390 Main St. N.E., Department 1, Minneapolis, Minn. 55421)

Why so honest? Why no hype? Because honesty is good business, says Jim Kraft, 38, who co-founded the company two years ago.

"You go to Kmart and you spend $20 on 'Raquel Welch: Total Beauty and Fitness' and you get it home expecting exercise, and lo and behold you have 72 different yoga positions," Kraft says. "That's tough."

We turned to Kraft and Collage Video staff — who aren't physiologists but fitness veterans — to help review Fonda and Welch and recommend some other tapes.

Kraft ranks "Jane Fonda's Complete Workout" as Fonda's best effort, tied for first with her "Low-Impact Aerobic Workout" (1986, Warner, $29.98).

"In general, the Jane Fonda tapes are workmanlike performances, but they are certainly not the best tapes out there," Kraft says.

He says Fonda has come a long way from her first tape in which she was barefoot and bouncing much too much.

"Complete" — 70 minutes of aerobics and muscle toning with light weights — tries to cater to all body shapes, fitness levels and aerobics preferences through clever production techniques. During the aerobics Fonda steps back to show two on-screen group leaders, one doing a high bounce, one doing a low bounce.

The tape sandwiches a 30-minute aerobics session between a 20-minute upper-body workout. This way viewers can do a 50-minute workout each day, but not do weight training day after day on the same body parts.

Kraft's two major criticisms were that the tape never called for a pulse check, and that having two aerobics leaders on-screen could be confusing.

The Raquel tape, combining a 21-day diet chart and 90 minutes of yoga, muscle toning with light weights and heart-pumping routines such as stationary cycling, met tougher criticism. First, there is no music to help set the beat. Second, there are several five-minute stretches in which all we see is Raquel pedaling a stationary bicycle. "To watch Raquel sit on a bicycle is ... pointless," says Kraft, whose customers tell him they expect to have a leader doing something they can follow.

Also, he says five minutes of heart-pumping exercise is not long enough to burn fat. Most exercise experts generally agree that you need at least 15 minutes, so he questions how effective the exercise will be to deliver on the title's promise of 10 pounds lost.

•For older types: "Richard Simmons and the Silver Foxes" (1986, Warner, $24.95). Swing tunes help celebrity parents such as Sal Pacino (Al's father) follow Richard through gentle aerobics.

•For overweights: "Idrea Says: Yes You Can!" (1988, Two Lipps, $24.95). Idrea, who shed 70 pounds to reach 180, inspires the large among us — even those who have trouble getting on the floor — to aerobicize.

•For a first workout for those basically in good shape: "Kathy Smith's Starting Out" (1987, Media, $19.95). A beginners' tape that is more than just watered-down exercises; this is a solid, vigorous workout.

•For those wanting it really tough: "The Firm II" (1988, Meridien, $49.95). Superb production values support Janet Jones Gretzky in leading this fast-paced workout.

•For men and the first body part to go: "Flatten Your Stomach for Men" (1985, Crown Video, $19.95). Kraft says 90 percent of his customers are women, but this tape is his best seller among men.

•For dancing fools: "Danceaway — Hits from the 1950s, 1960s, 1970s, 1980s" (1987, Polaris, $19.95 each). Aerobics to pop hits from "Good Golly Miss Molly" to "Celebration."

Best Bets: (Jan. 13-19): "Michael Jackson: Moonwalker" (1988, CBS Music, $24.98). The first music-video cassette for the scalpeled one since "Thriller" (1982, Vestron, $29.98), music video's all-time best seller. This 94-minute extravaganza packs in outrageous special effects and dance numbers.

Soggy alien drowns in sea of bad acting, equally bad visual effects

Movie News

By Harry Hamm

"Deepstar Six" (*½) is a cheaply done underwater clone of "Alien" without Sigourney Weaver in her underwear.

"Deepstar Six" is set sometime in the near future, six miles under the sea, in a top-secret underwater laboratory full of people who speak in short sentences and call each other by their last names. (More touches from "Alien.") Since one of the purposes of the water experiment is to test the long-term feasibility of undersea colonization, there is occasional fraternizing among the male and female crew members, limited to kissing, of course.

The experiment is being partially financed by the U.S. Navy which, for some unknown reason, wants to install a deep-sea missile base. (What happens in the near future — do we lose all our nuclear submarines?)

Problems occur after a large underwater cavern is discovered and then partially caves in when the crew of Deepstar use explosives for excavation. This disturbs an undersea monster who resembles a large mutant frog crossed with a lobster.

No wonder he's mad.

The monster then starts a war with the crew of "Deepstar Six" and by the time the film is over, there aren't many people left in either the film or the theater. Why? Well, for one thing the special effects consist primarily of badly made miniatures and are not the least bit convincing to any audience familiar with George Lucas.

Also, the scripting of "Deepstar Six" is laden with lines like, "And then they were screaming. And then they were gone." The giant set meant to be the interior of the main undersea work station contains what may be a world record for the most blinking lights in one place that do absolutely nothing.

"Deepstar Six" is an all-wet adventure that may possibly appeal to the 12-year-old crowd, but don't bet your water wings on it. The giant frog from hell in this film may be ugly but he is the only thing or person in this picture that exhibits any personality.

Rated R (violence). Running time: 99 minutes. Rating based on four-star system.

Exhibit takes visitors to jungle

A lush, tropical setting awaits visitors to the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden's annual orchid show when it opens Jan. 28.

This year's exhibit will "try to simulate the look of a Central American forest-jungle environment," said Brian LeDoux, the garden's exhibit designer.

Highlights include a large, cork-covered tree that will showcase individual orchids, a jungle village setting with tropical huts, and waterfalls and pools.

Attending to detail and making the exhibit as realistic as possible are the display department's main goals, LeDoux said.

Accordingly, real palm has been used as thatch on the jungle village huts, and simulated liana vines (made with grapevines) will run through the trees. In tropical forests, these vines are usually adorned with orchids that have grown over them, as they will be at the show.

Staghorn ferns, bromeliads and other tropical plants will be featured as well as the orchids.

January, February and March are the best blooming months for orchids, LeDoux said. Although the varieties found in the show are tropical, he said other species of orchids are found right here in Missouri.

Missouri has about 40 species of orchids, though they bear little resemblance to the orchids in the show, LeDoux said.

The show will be open from Jan. 28 through Feb. 26, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily in the garden's Ridgway Center, 4344 Shaw Blvd.

Other than the regular garden admission — $2 for adults, $1 for seniors and free for children under 13 — the show is free.

A companion lecture to the show, "Life in the Trees: A Look at Tropical Orchids," will be given Feb. 2 at 1 and 7 p.m.

Dr. Kerry Walter, director of botany and information systems for the Center for Plant Conservation, will be the speaker. The lecture also is free with regular garden admission.

Those who wish more information may call (314) 577-5125.

Oliver Stone defies stereotype

Oliver Stone is not what many view as a mainstream Hollywood filmmaker.

His direct manner and pragmatic approach give him the personal veneer of a football coach or a mortgage loan officer. His unsmiling face and intense gaze make him resemble a man with a mission instead of a movie.

Already the recipient of two Oscars — one for directing "Platoon" in 1986 and one for writing the screenplay for "Midnight Express" in 1978 — Stone seems to defy all classic Tinseltown stereotypes.

At 42, Stone has, after critical and box-office hits like "Salvador," "Platoon" and "Wall Street," earned at least a temporary carte blanche to be involved in any kind of movie project he deems to accept. Producer Robert Stigwood already has named him the director for the film version of the stage musical "Evita," which will star Meryl Streep as Evita Peron.

Stone acknowledges he is looking forward to making the film but says nothing contractual has been agreed to, even though the film is set to go into production in six to nine months.

Stone also says he would like to direct a comedy, although no scripts are forthcoming at the moment.

"Talk Radio," a film about a rude "shock radio" host in Dallas, is the newest movie to carry Stone's name as director. Stone admits it may be the one film he has made with the least chance for a mass audience acceptance.

In Memoriam 480 In Memoriam 480

In Memory Of
MILLARD HAWKINS
Who passed away
JANUARY 25, 1985

I have lost my life's companion, a life linked with my own, and every day I miss him more, as I walk through life alone. No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have lost can tell of the grief I bear in silence, for the one I loved so well. I never knew that hearts could ache with such a bitter pain, longing for his voice again. I never knew that nights could be so lonely, cold and dim, but I have learned so many things, because of losing him. But with all my tears and heartaches, one thing has made me glad, he chose me to share with him, those wonderful years we had.

Devils get top seed; Warriors draw Lincoln

Although East St. Louis Assumption has a better record and is rated higher in the polls, the Venice Red Devils still have a better sense of timing.

That's why the Devils (14-4) are the top seed in the Columbia Regional, to be played Feb. 21-24, while the Pioneers (14-3) are relegated to the second seed.

Assumption beat the Devils on Saturday, but it was Venice's 60-58 win at Assumption on Jan. 6 which earned them the top spot in the regional. The seeding meeting was held three days after that game.

The Devils will get a bye and will play the Columbia-Lovejoy winner at 7 p.m. on Feb. 23. Columbia (7-8), the No. 4 seed, will play Lovejoy (0-14, No. 5) at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 21. Assumption will face No. 7 seed Dupo (9-6) at 7 p.m. Feb. 22, while No. 3 Lebanon (7-10) will face No. 6 Madison (2-11) immediately following that game. The Assumption-Dupo winner will face the Lebanon-Madison winner following the Venice game on Feb. 23. The winners of those two games will meet for the regional championship at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24.

The Columbia Regional winner will join winners from Litchfield, St. Elmo and Staunton at the Vandalia Sectional on Feb. 28-March 3. Gillespie is the top seed at Litchfield, Patoka is top-seeded at St. Elmo and Wesclin is the favorite at Staunton.

March Madness '89

The Columbia winner will play the Staunton winner at 7:30 p.m. March 1, with the sectional title game at 7:30 p.m. March 3.

The winner there will face the Bridgeport (Red Hill) Sectional winner in the Charleston Super-Sectional at Lantz Gym on March 7 at 7:30. The winner there advances to the Class A state tournament in Champaign on March 10-11.

In Class AA, it looks like Don Deterding's coaching career will come to an abrupt halt in the first round of the regionals. The Warriors (7-11) will take on two-time defending state champion East St. Louis Lincoln (16-1) in the East St. Louis (Sr.) Regional at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 28. East St. Louis (10-6) and Cahokia (7-7) will meet the next night, with the winners of those two games to meet for the regional championship on March 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The winner there will join winners from Bethalto, Belleville East and Edwardsville in the Collinsville Sectional on March 7-10. The pairings for those regionals are as follows:

Bethalto: Feb. 28 — Alton (11-2) vs. Civic Memorial (8-9), 6:30 p.m.; Wood River (8-8) vs. Jerseyville (8-7), immediately following; winners meet March 3 at 7:30.

Belleville East: Feb. 28 — Belleville Althoff (12-4) vs. Belleville West (6-10), 7:30 p.m.; March 1 — Collinsville (10-8) vs. Belleville East (4-10), 7:30 p.m.; winners meet March 3 at 7:30.

Edwardsville: Feb. 28 — Highland (8-8) vs. Roxana (2-11), 7:30 p.m.; March 1 — Edwardsville (12-4) vs. Triad (6-10), 7:30 p.m.; winners meet March 3 at 7:30.

The East St. Louis winner will meet the Bethalto winner at Collinsville at 7:30 on March 7. The Belleville winner will meet the Edwardsville winner the next night at 7:30. The winners will meet March 10 at 7:30 for the Collinsville Sectional title.

The sectional champion will meet the Marion Sectional winner in the Carbondale Super-Sectional at 7:30 p.m. March 14 at the SIUC Arena. The winner there will advance to the Class AA state tournament in Champaign on March 17-18.

'Instant Reflaye' beats Lady Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — For the highlights of Tuesday's game at Memorial Gym, let's go to the "Instant Reflaye."

Time and again, there was Reflaye Williams, Belleville East's premier center, taking a pass or grabbing a rebound under the basket and going up for two more points. The area's second-leading scorer and top rebounder improved on her totals with 33 points and 15 rebounds as the Lancers, the No. 3 team in the Journal large school poll, rolled to an 82-49 win over the Lady Warriors.

Williams made 16 of 19 shots from the field as East (7-1 in the Southwestern Conference, 17-3 overall) shot out to a 26-14 lead after one quarter and never looked back. The Lady Warriors (3-5 in the SWC, 7-9 overall) got another solid 21-point effort from Jennifer Cavaness. But with Kim Pawlak still out with an ankle injury, they lacked the scoring depth to keep up with the ladies in blue.

"We have to have four and even all five starters scoring against a team like this," said Lady Warrior coach John Hutchings. "We missed Kim a lot. She would have given us another 15 points and kept us in the game a little longer. And she would have helped a lot against the press."

The Lancers came out with plenty of pressure, and Granite City had loads of trouble. Cavaness got behind the defense regularly, but no one could get her the ball for easy layups.

"We had the press solved several times in the first quarter," Hutchings said. "But we didn't have that extra energy to get the ball over their heads to Jennifer."

When Williams (23.6 points, 14.4 rebounds per game) wasn't scoring, Lisa Korte was. She had 18 points and eight steals while Vickie Grawitch, leading the area in assists with 11.3 per game, dished off 13 more on Tuesday. Toni Ables chipped in 10 points for the Lancers, who moved back into a first-place tie in the SWC with their crosstown rivals from Belleville West.

SCORING

BELLEVILLE EAST	26	23	18	15—82
GRANITE CITY	14	08	10	17—49

BELLEVILLE EAST: Williams 33 (15 rebounds), Korte 18 (8 steals), Ables 10, Grawitch 7 (13 assists), Pecoraro 7, Thurwalker 5, Blaes 2. FG-39/78, FT-4/9, PF-15.

GRANITE CITY: Cavaness 21, Sykes 10, Bequette 9, Meyenburg 8, Lenzi 1 (5 assists). FG-20/56, FT-9/17, PF-10.

East coach Paul James said the Lancers lack the depth of the Maroons, which is how West outlasted his team last Friday. The two teams split conference games this year.

"East has the better press," Hutchings said. "But West can bring more players off the bench and wear you down. That's what they did to us last time. Our starting five was better than theirs. But they brought in the reserves and tired us out."

Cavaness, who is third in the area behind Williams and Columbia's April Ingrum in scoring and rebounding (21.9 points and 13.0 rebounds), did her best to keep the Lady Warriors respectable, but the Lancers had too much.

"Jennifer has been terrific," Hutchings said. "I can't see how she can miss being first-team all-conference. But East can stop one person."

Freshman Karen Sykes came off the bench to score 10 points, Michelle Bequette had nine and Priscilla Meyenburg, who was under the weather, had eight.

The Lady Warriors are right back at it tonight when they host East St. Louis at 7:30, a game which could go a long way in determining how the Granite City Regional will go next month.

"If East St. Louis clobbers us again, it will hurt our morale," said Hutchings. "We're hoping Pawlak is back for that one. We've just got to solve the press and not panic and we'll be all right."

The Flyerettes (5-12) are the Warriors' chief obstacle in their quest for the regional crown.

Lineup shuffling pays off with SWC mat title

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — For those of you not quite sure how the Warrior wrestling team has carved out a 20-8 record this year and won the Southwestern Conference title, don't expect coach Mike Garland to give you the answers.

He's not quite sure himself how it happened.

"It's really hard to believe how well we've done," said Garland. "Nothing's for sure with this team. We still have a banged-up lineup. But that's what's great about these kids. They keep battling."

Garland has a handful of wrestlers he can count on week in and week out. But a set lineup has been only a dream this year. The Warriors have used 27 different people in varsity matches — an average of more than two per weight class. And many Warriors have wrestled at two and even three different weight classes.

"I've worn out a few pencils and erasers changing things around," he said.

Even two of the more consistent Warriors, 103-pounder Chris Hankins (22-4) and 275-pounder Rocky Moss (10-7-1) are at less than 100 percent health-wise. Hankins was out with a virus last week and has gained weight. He'll have trouble getting down for this weekend's action — Friday at home against Belleville Althoff and Saturday at Cahokia. Moss is wrestling with an infected ear.

In addition, senior Rich Fenoglio (18-4), who would help solidify the shaky middle part of the lineup, has quit the team, and junior Terry Noud also hasn't wrestled in several weeks.

"I can't do much about those kids," said Garland. "I have to worry about the ones that are here."

Trojans end losing streak at 10 games

By Mike Blackshere
Correspondent

MADISON — For the first time this year, the Madison Trojans resembled the Trojans of past years on Tuesday. They ran, they scored, they used man-to-man defense to wear their opponent down, and most importantly, they won.

The Trojans trailed by as much as 15 points in the first half, but came back to beat a good Lebanon Greyhound team, 81-78.

The Trojans broke a ten-game losing streak to go to 2-11. The Greyhounds are now 7-10

The Greyhounds took advantage of a number of defensive breakdowns by Madison to lead 44-29 with three minutes left in the first half. But even though the score favored Lebanon, the tempo favored Madison.

The Greyhounds rely heavily on their starters, who accounted for all but four of the team's points. They only played six players, while Madison shuttled nine players on and off the floor.

"It felt good to win, especially against a good team like Lebanon," Madison coach Al Collins said. "They put six good players on the floor, and all six of them can really play."

Those six looked especially good in the first half when the Trojan defenders let them take any shot they wanted, and they wanted to shoot layups.

SCORING

LEBANON	28	18	16	16—78
MADISON	23	15	19	24—81

LEBANON: Brooks 22, Schleppe 21, Ogden 13, Formoso 11 (1 3-pointer), Missey 7, Gilmore 4. FG-32 (1 3-pointer), FT-13, PF-13.

MADISON: Jones 26, Leonard 17 (1 3-pointer), Mays 14, T. Smith 9 (1 3-pointer), Haynes 6, Walker 4, Coleman 3 (1 3-pointer), Griggs 2. FG-36 (3 3-pointers), FT-6, PF-17.

"In the first half we didn't play any defense," Collins said. "It seemed like all of their points came in the paint. We were working hard on offense, but not on defense."

The Greyhounds did everything right the first 11 minutes and it looked as if they might rout the Trojans. But in the last three minutes of the first half, the lead was cut from 15 to eight.

Senior Aaron Jones scored seven points in a row during the run. He grabbed an offensive rebound, put it in and was fouled. He missed the free throw but cut the lead to 44-31. The next time down Jones scored again inside, drew the foul and this time he completed the three-point play to make it 44-34.

Skaters' win streak cut short by Flyers

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — The hockey Warriors' four-game winning streak came to an end on Monday, although Granite City didn't get a chance to present its final arguments.

The Chaminade Flyers defeated the Warriors 3-1 in a game that was called with 10:11 left because of a broken pane of glass in the southwest corner of the Wilson Park rink. Without a replacement, the officials told both captains the game would be called at that point. Only if the game mattered in the final league standings would the league consider rescheduling or completing the game.

The Flyers outshot the Warriors 32-13 in the abbreviated game, but Warrior goaltender John Rains was magnificent, making at least 10 outstanding saves. The Warriors (8-8), by comparison, had only a handful of scoring chances against Chaminade and goalie Mark Salmons. Only Jim Roberson was able to score in the first minute of the game, flying down left wing and stuffing a shot in the short side.

John Studer had put Chaminade ahead after only 26 seconds. Defenseman Mike Hrubes intercepted a Warrior clearing pass at the blue line and fed Studer, who whirled a fired a low shot past Rains. Roberson tied it with his seventh goal in four games only 15 seconds later.

Rains then put on a show, stopping Steve Nelson tiwce — once on a two-on-none breakaway as Rains dived across to stop Nelson's tap-in at the 8:00 mark.

The Warriors killed a penalty to Jim Hawkins, but Sean Jacoby put Chaminade ahead for good at 11:45. He took a pass from Mike Griffin in the high slot and sent a 30-footer past Rains.

Chaminade outshot the Warriors 15-6 in the first period and 13-5 in the second period, but Rains kept the Warriors in the game. Mike Naeve had the Warriors' best chance of the second period, but was stopped by Salmons.

Mike Ryan made it 3-1 only 14 seconds into the third period on assists by Studer and Nelson. Ryan came down right wing and was allowed to cut right in front of the goal where he stuffed the puck past Rains.

Devils, Pioneers square off in round three Friday night

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Round three of a schedule four-round bout will take place Friday at the Venice High School gym.

The Red Devils (14-4) ranked 10th in the Journal small school poll, will take on East St. Louis Assumption (14-3), sixth in the Journal poll and 15th in the state rankings, at 7:30 p.m. The two teams have split the first two rounds, with the Devils winning 60-58 at Assumption on Jan. 6 and the Pioneers getting a 62-57 win Saturday in the Sparta Tournament championship game.

Round four will be the decisive one, however. It is likely to occur Feb. 24 in the Columbia Regional title game. The Devils are the top seed in the regional and the Pioneers are second (see related story).

Venice is led by the inside duo of seniors Hosea King (21.9 points, 12.0 rebounds) and Daryl Jackson (19.8 points, 9.0 rebounds) and the outside shooting of sophomore Erwin Claggett (12.6 points, 51.9 percent from three-point range).

Assumption is paced by 6-4 senior jumping jack Monteff Dixon (17.5 points, 13.9 rebounds, 41 blocks) and 6-7 junior center Ian Stanback (16.7 points, 16.7 rebounds, 76 blocks). Malcolm Hill and Ronald Scott are also scoring in double figures and Maurice Horton averages nine assists per game.

Weekend preview

The Granite City Warriors (7-11, 0-5 in the Southwestern Conference) will try to get back on the winning track with two home games. The Warriors host Belleville Althoff on Friday at 8 p.m. and Belleville East at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Senior Mike Wilkinson has taken over the team scoring lead with a 13.7 average. Junior Matt Cook averages 12.4 points and junior John VanBuskirk is at 10.3. Althoff (12-4) won the Belleville East Tournament last week. The Crusaders are led by center Danny Serkin (17.8 points, 9.0 rebounds) and guard B.C. Perry (13.6 points, 4.8 assists).

Belleville East (4-11, 2-3 in the SWC) beat the Warriors 72-61 on Dec. 9 and finished fourth in its own tournament last week. The Lancers are paced by Bernell Love (14.6 points), who always has good games against the Warriors, and Forry Wells (13.9 points). Granite City will be looking to end a 16-game SWC losing streak in Saturday's game.

The Madison Trojans (2-11) ended a 10-game losing streak on Tuesday and will try to put back-to-back wins together for the first time this year when they travel to Okawville for an 8 p.m. game Friday. The Rockets finished second in the state in 1987 when Venice beat them, but Okawville is only 5-12 this year. The Trojans host Pinckneyville at 8 p.m. Saturday. The Panthers finished second in the state to Pana last year and are very strong again this season.

Jake Hinterser honored; leader of local youth hockey

Jake Hinterser of Granite City was presented the Lynn Patrick Memorial Award at the 21st annual Blueliners Banquet held Monday at the Marriott Pavilion Hotel in St. Louis.

The award is presented by the Blueliners in conjunction with the St. Louis Blues to individuals for outstanding service to amateur hockey. Hinterser served as president of the Granite City Amateur Hockey Association for five years (1972-77) and helped organize the Granite City High School club hockey program in 1978.

It all started in 1969 when Jake's 7-year-old son, Andy, read a newspaper article for a school assignment regarding news of a mini-squirt hockey team being organized in Granite City. Jake took Andy and 5-year-old Chris out to the rink and they learned to skate backwards together. Chris decided a year later he would rather be a goalie.

After Jake skated in the Men's B League in Granite City and Winterland and his schedule conflicted with the boys, he gave up his playing career to coach. For many years, with three boys skating (Todd was the youngest), there were five different hockey schedules and Jake's coaching in the Hinterser household.

Jake coached 11 years in Granite City, three years in Clayton, one year for Team St. Louis and five years in Affton. He was also general manager for one year with the Junior B team.

He also served five years as president of the Granite City Amateur Hockey Association. The Wilson Park rink was only three years old in 1972 and there was a lot of organizing and fund raisers that helped make the rink financially sound.

As the Hinterser boys outgrew their equipment, Jake would outfit a new player. If anyone needed equipment, they called Jake Hinterser. If he didn't have the right size, he would find someone who did. He would drive to Peoria and buy dozens of sticks and sell them at cost to the boys. And the association grew to more than 200 boys.

Jake ran for the park board in 1972 and served as park commissioner until 1978 the ensure that the hockey program would have a voice on the board. He served as vice president and president during his six-year term.

In 1978, Jake was on the board of directors and helped organize the club hockey program at the high school sanctioned by the state under the Mid States Club Hockey Association. He worked to get hockey recognized and accepted as a school sport with letterman awards and cheerleaders. The board earned enough from fund raisers to charge each player only $50 to play for the Warriors.

Hinterser was on the Missouri Amateur Board serving as AA commissioner and on the Rules and Protest Committee from 1973-86. He has coached boys who have played in the MSCHA final four, boys who have tried out for the Olympics and have played in the Nationals. Many of his players have gone on to prep schools or college with scholarships.

Although Jake's first love is hockey, he also coached youth soccer for five years and the Mercer's Little League baseball team for 10 years. He is active as chairman of the Administrative Council and a trustee at Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church.

Jake and his wife Judy will celebrate their 30th anniversary in August. They have three sons: Andy, 26, Chris, 24, and Todd, 19. Todd Hinterser is perhaps the best hockey player ever to come out of the high school hockey program. Jake is employed at Granite City Steel in the production control department.

The entire Hinterser family attended Monday's banquet, including Jake's father, Jake Sr., who was honored as he celebrated his 86th birthday. Andy lives in Troy, Chris in Springfield and Todd in Mt. Vernon (he is a student at Rend Lake Community College).

Other awards were presented to Blues scout Bob Plager, Blues left winger Tony McKegney and former Blue Doug Gilmour. The Patrick Award is named after the former New York Ranger executive who was one of the founding fathers of the Blues.

Merchants seeking sponsors

Granite City's new entry in the Mon-Clair League, the Merchants, has launched a letter-writing campaign to recruit sponsors.

Public relations director Woody Moad and manager Daren DePew have drafted a letter they are taking to any and all businesses and civic organizations seeking contributions for the Merchants' first season, which will begin in May.

The Merchants are promising, for each $100 donation, to have the organization's name inscribed on the back of one uniform and to place an advertisement on the team's 2' by 3" game schedule. Estimates for total cost of the first year are in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Having failed to land one major sponsor so far, Moad believes this is the way to go.

"We've already had a few positive responses," he said. "Naming the team the Merchants was a tactical decision. We hope we can get more businesses involved."

The Merchants are in the Mon-Clair League on a probationary basis in 1989 and expect to have full membership in 1990. The team will also play in the Wednesday Night Metro League. The Merchants will consist of top amateur players from the area who aren't playing professionally and are too old to play American Legion baseball.

Anyone interested in helping the team in any way should call Moad at 451-1387.

(See TROJANS, Page 3D)

With 50 seconds left, Jones got another offensive rebound and a bucket to keep the deficit at ten, 46-36.

The Trojans got an emotional lift on the last play of the half. Sophomore Chris Griggs picked a good time to get his only two points when he grabbed an offensive rebound and put it back in as time elapsed. The Trojans had cut the lead to eight, 46-38, and took the momentum into the second half.

The Trojans opened up the second half with an 8-2 spurt to cut the lead to 48-46 with 5:40 left in the third quarter.

Although the Greyhounds play only one senior with three juniors and a sophomore, they showed good poise in the third quarter. All five players scored in the quarter, led by junior Tony Formoso's six points, and they never relinquished the lead in the quarter.

But the Trojans took the lead quickly in the fourth quarter and never trailed again. Senior Sherwin Coleman hit a three-pointer and Jones got a conventional three-point play to put his team up 63-62 with 7:20 left.

The Trojans showed some signs of fatigue in the fourth quarter as they could never open up more than a five-point lead. They missed four uncontested layups to help keep the Greyhounds in the game. Jones led all scorers with 26 points, but he missed three lay-ups in the fourth quarter and almost turned his best game of the year into a nightmare.

NOTES: The Venice Red Devils raised their record to 14-4 Tuesday with an 82-59 win over Cardinal Ritter at home. Venice and Madison will meet again on Tuesday in Madison.

Red-hot Cougars roll past Rivermen, 87-71

By Al Barnes
Correspondent

EDWARDSVILLE — Although having covered sports since 1927, only recently has it been discovered the best place to cover a basketball game. It's not in the press box, but right behind one of the team's benches.

Normally, a reporter interviews both coaches after the game. But after Monday's Cougar game against the University of Missouri-St. Louis, there was no need to interview Rivermen's coach Rick Meckfessel.

Midway through the second half of SIUE's 87-71 victory over UMSL, I got the only interview I needed with Meckfessel during a timeout after the Cougars spurted out to a 69-42 lead. Meckfessel put it bluntly to his players.

"You guys are embarrassing me," he said.

SIUE (13-3) led only 43-34 at halftime, but behind the pressure and shooting of Odell Tidwell (18 points), Frankie Williams (21), Edgar Wilson (13), Tim Brown (11) and Phil Wahl (9), the Cougars — moving up in the NCAA Division II poll — ran off a 26-8 string.

"It was the boys' best game of the season," said Cougar coach Larry Graham.

The rivalry is a bitter one, with UMSL still holding a 23-17 edge. The Rivermen won the first 11.

The Cougars shot 61 percent from the floor and Tony Gallishaw led all rebounders with 10 as SIUE outrebounded the Rivermen 40-22. UMSL (12-3) was led by Jeff Wilson with 14 points. Ed Ware, a 1986 graduate of Venice High School, scored six points for the Rivermen.

The Cougars host Judson College on Friday, then travel to Southern Indiana in Evansville to try to avenge of their three losses on Monday.

Edwardsville team has some openings

The Bank of Edwardsville 75 soccer team has a limited number of openings for additional players born in 1975 for its federation team.

The team is coached by Jim Jackson, a former SIUE soccer player. The team is part of the Edwardsville Area Soccer Club.

Membership in the club offers many opportunities to youth soccer players. League play begins Feb. 19 and ends May 7. Games are on Sunday afternoons.

Interested players should call Jackson at 692-5414 or John Jennetten at 656-0071 to learn more about tryout times and dates.

The Warriors would have had a hard time catching up as leading scorer Matt Schnefke was whistled for a 10-minute misconduct a minute later when he argued with officials after a Chaminade player had taken the stick out of Schnefke's hands and no penalty was called.

But a hard check in the corner two minutes later shattered the glass and the game was finally called after a five-minute wait.

The Warriors are off until Monday when they host McCluer North at 8:30 p.m. Granite City will finish second in the North Division with a win and have an outside chance at first place with the right goal differential in that game and McCluer's game with Hazelwood Central.

The ones that are here include the top six of Todd Hutchinson, Bryan Pritchett, Brent Davis, Dan Grayson, Brad Massey and Larry Hahne. Those six have combined for a 148-44-4 record.

"I don't know where we would be without those six," Garland said. "They have been the nucleus. Even last week, Hutchinson and Davis were both pretty sick, but they came through for us."

In Hankins' absence, freshman Ryan King did well at 103, getting a big tie against Collinsville in Saturday's meet which wrapped up the Warriors' first SWC crown since 1984. And sophomore Brian Kershaw also performed ably at 112.

"Our freshmen and sophomores have been pretty durable," said Garland. "We've called on them often. They have some good moves, but they don't have the muscle to complete them. It's tough sending them against seniors."

The Warriors also got senior Jerold Moss back last weekend and Garland hopes he can work into shape by the regional, which is next weekend. He would then go at 130. The 135, 140, 145 and 152 classes are up for grabs based on this weekend's results.

"Althoff is tough in certain weight classes," Garland said. "It depends if our good kids can beat their good kids. Grayson against Kris Armstrong at 160 will be an important match.

"And Cahokia (still unbeaten) looks awfully tough. But it will be good to face them at this time. That should give us a good idea how we are going into the regional."

Triad and Murphysboro will also compete at Cahokia in the meet Saturday, which begins at 11 a.m.
